“Remember that the happiest people are not those getting more, but those giving more”

- H. Jackson Brown Jr.

The CSCC represents the collective voice of parents, advocating for their concerns, ideas, and suggestions. Volunteering allows you to participate in important discussions and decision-making processes that can influence school policies, programs, and initiatives.

Being on the CSCC means getting the opportunity to work towards improving the school environment and the educational experience of students. This knowledge can benefit your own child's education by allowing you to better understand and support their learning journey.

By volunteering for the CSCC, you demonstrate the importance of community involvement and civic responsibility to your own children. It fosters a sense of belonging and involvement, creating a stronger connection between your family and the school. You show them the value of giving back and making a difference, inspiring them to contribute to their communities as well

Volunteering often provides opportunities for personal and professional growth. Serving on the CSCC can help you cultivate various skills such as leadership, communication, event planning, and problem-solving. These skills can be valuable in both your personal and professional life.

It connects you with other parents who share similar values and goals. Opportunities to collaborate with like-minded individuals, create strong bonds and enduring friendships, as you all work together.
